

Aug. 31st E-NEWS

End of August? Already? Where has the summer gone? Even if I could ignore what the calendar is showing, the new stock in our garden centre proves that fall is just around the corner!

Fall mums, ornamental kale, fall pansies, hypericum berry plants and a fresh supply of calibrachoa hanging baskets that can handle temperatures down to -9°C have arrived, just in time for you to freshen up your containers or dress up the garden for the rest of the growing season. We've also done up some gorgeous fall containers if you prefer something ready-to-go.

Fall planted bulbs arrived today and we're busy getting them out on the shelves. A new seed rack of cool-season varieties is also now in stock.

FALL BULBS

FALL SEEDS

And of course, the apples are starting to ripen and we have several varieties freshly-picked and at their peak of flavour. Right now we have the following apple varieties in our market: Summer Red, Sunrise, Earligold, Paula Red and the Whitney and Transcendent Crab-apples.

Other tree fruit in stock right now:

Plums: Black Amber, Shiro, Gold, and Sugar, and Early Italian prune

Peaches: Glo Haven

Nectarines

Cherries: Staccato

Apricots: Tilton (almost gone)

Pears: Bartlett

Small fruits and veggies in stock:

Blueberries

Blackberries (Some U-pick available by appt.)

Melons: Watermelon, Cantaloupe

Veggies: Field tomatoes, Local Garlic, Spaghetti squash, and peppers.

PLANT OF THE WEEK: Perennial
Hibiscus (Hibiscus x moscheutos)

The perennial hibiscuses are coming into bloom right now and they are selling as quickly as each new bloom expands. These are SPECTACULAR blooms! We have several varieties in stock, each with a different colour bloom, but in every case the blooms are huge, up to 9 inches across. They are hardy to Zone 5, die back to soil level in fall, and are slow to emerge in spring, but once they do, they grow quickly. They prefer a moist to wet soil but are remarkably tolerant of regular garden conditions as long as they don't dry out completely.
